SS.912.A.3.1 - Challenges to American Farmers – Example 2 Answer

Until the early 20th century, few restrictions on immigration to the United States existed primarily because

A. industry needed an increasing supply of labor

B. immigration totals had always been relatively low

C. labor unions had always favored unrestricted immigration

D. the Supreme Court had ruled that Congress could not restrict immigration

Answer

A  industry needed an increasing supply of labor

With the booming of the industrial revolution, labor was a necessity in the work force to keep output at high levels.